4-H Club Week Program Planned

Demonstrations by 4-H club members of projects carried on in their homes or on farms, will have an important part in the program of 4-H Week, according to J. W. Whitehouse, state leader of 4-H club work. The event, scheduled for June 8 to 12, will be held at the University of Kentucky.

Each demonstration will cover a certain phase of such subjects as dairying, poultry, gardening, tobacco, food, clothing, canning and home furnishings.

About 100 counties will have water management teams which will show methods of laying out terraces, hillside ditches and farm reservoirs.

A majority of the counties will have county clothing champions in the dress review, the state winner being awarded a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in December. In costumes made by the girls, and worn in the review, may be school, street or party dress, suits or coats.

Fern Creek V. F. D. Making Progress

With the recent completion of a school of instruction for Volunteer Fire Department members, the Fern Creek V. F. D. feels it is capable of rendering an efficient type of service in the local area. More than a dozen volunteers received badges on the last night of the school, and in the latest calls the engine has been well-manned. The boys are holding regular drills and are awaiting the final inspection by the State Marshal for approval which will in the near future mean a reduction in insurance rates from a tenth to a ninth class.

At present the equipment is in first class condition, but constant repairs and replacements must be made. As a means of financial support the firemen have asked property owners to pledge $5.00 per year per home or business. To this they have had a good response. However, they say that many have neglected this matter. These are urged to make pledges as soon as possible for the firemen will be killed if the cause will be killed.

The Fern Creek Community Club which sponsors the fire department, has recently received the United States Post to make available an ample source of funds for fire protection to help finance this project they invite the public to attend the "WASM Club Old Glory Show" on June 4. See the Amusement Guide in this issue of the Jeffersonian.

Firemen To Attend Lexington Training

A three-day training school for firemen is announced for June 8, 9, and 10, to be conducted by the United States of Kentucky, in Lexington. Nationally known fire department instructors will assist the school. Firemen from Jeffersontown will attend.

Desiring of making every fire fighting unit in the State efficient, as possible, Governor Earle Clements has instructed the State Fire Marshal's office to pay the expenses of one representative from each fire department to attend the school. Announcing the school, Geo. H. Parker, advisory engineer, said today, "It is essential that every fire department be represented by an intelligent, able-bodied member who can, and will, take part in the classes and which many hope upon his return, to communicate what he has learned to the other members of the department."

Parker emphasized the importance of universal participation in the training course.

Propose Last Ditch Fight For High School

Residents of the Jeffersontown area came in large numbers to attend another meeting for further discussion of the proposed removal of the high school from Jeffersontown to consolidate it with the Fern Creek high school.

At the previous week a petition had been drawn for presentation to the County Board of Education and state school authorities.

A committee will make the petition available to those desiring to sign it. A number spoke from the floor stressing the importance of, and need for, a local high school, pointing out what they regarded as injury to the economic, social and cultural life of the community, should the school at this place, where it was instituted nearly a quarter century ago.

One of the speakers pointed out that, "I am not interested in taking a school from any other community; we are asking to keep the school here." One real estate man present said, to remove the school would seriously affect real estate values in this area. Said he, "City people are coming to the country to live and they want to be near a high school."

Another offer was advanced, it was contended that Jeffersontown should rate a local high school because it is an incorporated municipality; it was the site of one of the first of the county high schools; is a community center for a thickly populated and fast growing rural community; has eight churches of various denominations with resident pastors; has modern city water facilities and fire protection, and has various industries and commercial enterprises to serve a rapidly increasing population.

The several speakers, including several of the local ministers, appealed to their audience to put forth every effort to retain the school in their midst.

THAT THEY JOINED HANDS... On May 28 the U. S. Government will issue this commemorative "Four Chaplains" stamp. This is the story behind it: The troopship S.S. Dorchester was torpedoed and sunk in the North Atlantic in February, 1945. On board were four chaplains of three faiths: Protestant ministers, George L. Fox and Clark V. Poling, and the Roman Catholic priest, Father Alexander G. Goode. When the ship was hit one of the chaplains died. The other three, who were of different faiths, joined hands and prayed to the God they all served for the safety of the men struggling to leave the ship. The four chaplains died together. Background of the survivors in the sinking include these words: "In the picture engraved on the ship's deck and hearts as the S.S. Dorchester disappeared beneath the waves."

Charlie Vetter

Old Smokie's about ready for the big opening of the Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board's playgrounds.

It's going to be a great summer with camping added for the youngsters' fun.

While the camp is set up to include ages 10-17 you can bet that if you 9-year old kid has earned $10 to go to camp with that he or she will be included.

Did you listen to jolly E. P. White, Jr., as he initiated his Sunday night radio program at 8:45 last Sunday? Don't miss any more if then if your radio wasn't working last week.

The jolly boy has something entirely new in the way of a news program and WJMN has scored by signing the curly head to a contract.

Get that family of yours in that old jolly and his youngsters away to Fern Creek on Friday, June 4, at 8 p. m. If that Fern Creek Community Church doesn't wow you with the Grand Ole Opry from WSM, Smokie will follow his ole bird.

Now for the Smoke Ring "Pipe of the Week" award. Ordinarily there's only one pipe of the week given away each week but this time there's two.

Jane Norton, member of the Jefferson County Board of Education, and Burton Stevens, recreation leader of St. Matthews, both get a pipe.

By the co-operation of these two public-spirited people the teen agers of Greathouse school will continue to have the gym there for their teen age dances sponsored by the Y.M.C.A.

Attention, St. Matthews people! How about dropping Bill and Jane a card and tell them you appreciate their work for the kids of St. Matthews.

A "plug" for Max Sanders—Max Sanders, the common-law husband of Mrs. Sanders, lives at Fairdale and as usual scored with another outstanding talk.

This personable fellow travels all over Kentucky speaking and helping people get things started that are good for young people and never accepts a dime for expenses or honorarium.

More than 50 Jefferson County school teachers will man the summer playgrounds after having trained in the school of the county recreation board.

Midtown—The appointment of Jimmie Crosby and Joanne Stafford as playground leaders there. You can bet that Eastwood is going all out to help Jim Cummings and Dana Krentzman get the job across there.

Is your kid going to get in on that swimming program? See your playground leader to tell him, "Jonnie wants to learn to swim"—he'll take care of the rest.

Old Smokie's getting hungry now so if you'll excuse him long enough to go to the kitchen to make a hamburger the old Bird Smoker will see you in a week.

COLORED RECREATION

"The Voice of the Community" It won't be long now before summer program will get under way, June 7, to be exact. We are anticipating a grand program this summer. It is indicated by the reaction of the visits I have made. We are looking forward to a colorful May 10 in the Armory. We are anxious to see those little twins at Griffytown on exhibition.

Say "Teen-agers, have you heard this? Robert 'Shanty' De Monbrun, the supervisor of projections will show movies to all centers, the schedule includes Newburg News By Mrs. J. H. Slatery.

So many of our faithful ones absent at church Sunday and we missed them so much. Hope to see them next week.

Spangler preached a very convincing sermon, subject, "Miracles." The choir sang a beautiful specialty, "In the Land Where They Never Grow Old."

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cook and Mrs. J. H. Slatery attended the meeting Sunday afternoon at Fairview and were so pleased to find a large crowd of interested people.

Mrs. Norvin Miller played the organ and the singing was inspirational. Brother Smith talked the problems over and felt very encouraged with the outlook and will preach next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and may continue it until a preacher is secured.

Mr. Lucien Rains of "Bellevue" was a week end visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blischoff and daughter.

Mrs. Martha Fitzsimmons of Louisville spent Saturday night with Mrs. Catherine Hart. They both work at Stewarts and have become good friends.

Mr. E. H. and Mrs. Della Hart will spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Shively.

The picnic given Friday at the Newburg School basement for the children, parents and school children was a very pleasant occasion with plenty of good things to eat.

Deep sympathy is extended to the survivors of Mrs. Will Ireland who passed away after much suffering. But she bore it with patience and was always cheerful and glad to have company.

We know Penn Run has a joy-day. We should like to have spent here. Welcome to our new Smyrna correspondent, Mrs. H. E. Ricketts, but we shall miss Mrs. W. Hush.

DOUBTED THE TYING ACCRACY AND DEPENDABILITY

of a JOHN DEERE Grain Binder

At harvest time, the true value of a grain binder is determined by the kind of bundles it makes and by its field dependability. John Deere gives you both.

It's efficient binding unit, noted for its remarkable tying accuracy and grain-saving ability, mows out stem, well-tied bundles which are easier to shock or feed to the threshers. Users claim it seldom misses a bundle.

Year after year, in standing down, or tangled grain, the John Deere cuts cleanly... gives you the kind of performance that means low operating expense... little time out for servicing and upkeep. Let us show you why it will pay you to own a John Deere. See us soon.

We have a very limited stock of tractor and horse-drawn binders and suggest that you see us once if you are interested in a binder for this year.

The Kingdom of Siam, which reaches from Burma and French Indo-China far south on the Malay Peninsula, has a history that reaches back to the sixth century when the ancestors of the people who now inhabit the land came there from the north.

One of the most lightly populated areas of southeast Asia, Siam has 13,200,000 people who live on some 200,000 square miles. Agriculture is the main occupation of Siam, which each year exports huge loads of rice. Other important products are teak, from areas of dense tropical forests, and tin and rubber.

GRAVES WILL BE DECORATED SUNDAY

Sunday, May 30, is Memorial Day when all Union graves will be decorated. The idea originated in the South where graves of departed Confederate soldiers were visited annually and flowers placed tenderly upon the green mounds in the cemeteries. There it was called Decoration Day. The Grand Army of the Republic later adopted the name Memorial Day and in some parts of the country the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers are decorated the same day, May 30. An earlier date for the ceremony was chosen in the South chiefly because flowers bloom earlier there. Jeffersontown will join with others Sunday in the observance. But what day, the Union and Confederate dead the idea has generally extended in this country to include departed soldiers of all wars.

In our "40 Years Ago" column this week is mentioned the fact that two years ago the Board of Town Trustees had ordained that certain sidewalks must be made in Jeffersontown. And older residents recall that the ordinance stirred up not a little trouble among a number of objectors to the "sidewalk" improvements. But what day, the Union and Confederate dead the idea has generally extended in this country to include departed soldiers of all wars.

Reading the New Orleans papers, we see that slot machines plague the metropolitan areas of the deep South today. Down there, it seems, they pay off in "peppermint sticks." According to our second hand informant, up here never know anything much about a payoff.

Complaints have been made to the local Town Council relative to speeding on Jeffersontown streets. We would say that something surely should be done about speeding. If not some of the dogs that are clearing up the streets in droves are going to get killed. And what a pity!

Most candidates are beginning to let it be known that they are not averse to being "drafted" for political service. We are waiting for a candidate to show up who, according to the candidate, made up his own mind to run without being persuaded by his friends.

The Christian Science Monitor drops this one into the hopper for discussion. In one year Americans spent $8,700,000 on liquor, $2,500,000,000 on charity. In one year they spent $6,000,000,000 on races and $2,500,000,000 on education. Looks like we need a little more education.

That proverbial "better mouse trap" has, for many years, been the objective of would be famous inventors. Still, according to a local housewife, the mice are still just jump ahead of the mouse trap.

It can be said in favor of the four legged skunk, if you let him alone he will let you alone. But with the two legged variety it's different.

We have recently been reminded that it is not unusual for political bedfellows to use the same bunk.

The American Cancer Society estimates that 17 million persons now living will die of cancer.

Regardless of the status of one's credit, he can always borrow more trouble than he can handle.

Today, as one of the aged doctors remarked, there is too much speculation. A general practitioner can't spend 90 percent of the cases—even today. This trend is toward the "specialist."

A local doctor, who is a member of the "specialist" group, recently remarked to me about the same matter—so few general practitioners are coming on. He remarked that the chief defect with specialization is that the average medic who concentrates on one or two small number of organs becomes inclined to overestimate the importance of the locale he treats and comes to think that everything from "earache to toe-ache" derives from its failure to function properly. The general practitioner, meanwhile, takes a balanced view of the patient's health, constitution and decides judiciously which labors have been handled. Even many a little-known country doctor, buried back in some remote section, has achieved such a reputation and a "Writ in human hearts, a name."

ously which is at fault in a particular instance. This does not mean that we do not need more specialists, but the crying need of the time is many more regular doctors.

Talk of repealing the veto-power in the U. N. Charter is apparently more wishful thinking than reality. The veto power would promptly leave the organization—the result would be a return to the old balance-of-power setup and the U. N. would be as dead as the League of Nations. I can only hope that if we ourselves would, if we understood what it involved, we would abandon the veto. Should it happen, as some not at all unimaginable or necessarily remote future session, that the nation's popular vote should "gang-up" on us, might we not be in need of the veto privilege ourselves?

The whole veto problem simply points up the trouble with any sort of world organization. It must be empowered to enforce its decisions upon us as well as upon the other fellow. It is to be a potent force in preserving peace and maintaining international law. That means that if it should order us to return Alaska to the Russians or the Louisiana Purchase to France, or the ground we bought them from automatic despoits who don't represent the two nation's popular will must do so. Does anyone want that sort of dictation? We may never need to use it, but for safety's sake we must retain the veto principle. Relinquishing of sovereignty is the only alternative—the world is not ready for that while conflicting ideologies dominate wide areas.

"A FUR PIECE" In spite of automobiles and good roads, I find it hard to believe that distance is so immaterial today. I still remember how far away the state line was from my father's farm, all of four miles. From the top of one of our tall trees on a hillside I could have seen very plainly far over into Tennessee, but it seemed farther than a hundred miles from my father's farm, all of four miles. I was a good-sized boy before I ever crossed that mythical line between the two states. Similarly, the area across the wide creek bottom, plainly visible from our front yard, seemed in another world, a world that I was never in before I left Fidelity. With my present propensity to walking, I wonder how I kept from actually cutting across the bottom and viewing these far-away lands at closer range. I am afraid that our having horses at Fidelity kept us from seeing most of the countryside that was not adjacent to the so-called roads. Only a few of the boys who liked to hunt far away got over some of that rough land, and they seemed pretty ignorant about it. Even the places nearest our home walk away remained for the most part as strange as Darkest Africa.

It is not merely the coming of the automobile that has made "fur piece" seem close by. In some ways we have learned to use our legs. From the time I was eighteen until I was thirty-six I had no means of locomotion except my legs. That is, after I left the farm and my little red truck behind, I walked until I bought my first "T" model. In those days I explored "inaccessible" places, but I was no longer a Fidelity expert for very brief visits. Therefore my knowledge of the places nearest our home birthplace is still pretty limited, though I am sure that I knew more about the country than most of the boys of my former friends.

But around my own town, the area I have lived in most of my life, I have been able to find out. I have penetrated to almost the hidden spots, especially those that might contribute to my knowledge of birds. However, one thing has limited my going into the places nearest our home since I was a boy: I now live near a good-sized river, and I have been across it at the few bridges that span it. In all the years I have lived here I have not been so much as added except to take the place of an earlier one; consequently, I have not been able to cross the river at one of two places, even to reach spots within a few hundred yards of our home. I have been able to reach a big water I have wished for seven-league boots or other mythical means of jumping across barriers in order to see places that were hard to reach by way of the regular means of travel.

For years I have wanted to go back to Fidelity and try out my legs on the roads and trails and through the woods and across the fields, in order to visit old places, places I had not been able to reach. I have been able to reach a big water I have wished for seven-league boots or other mythical means of jumping across barriers in order to see places that were hard to reach by way of the regular means of travel.

For years I have wanted to go back to Fidelity and try out my legs on the roads and trails and through the woods and across the fields, in order to visit old places, places I had not been able to reach. I have been able to reach a big water I have wished for seven-league boots or other mythical means of jumping across barriers in order to see places that were hard to reach by way of the regular means of travel.

The Basis of Fellowship

AMONG all peoples is a deep desire and need for fellowship; not mere human association, but universal brotherhood expressed in spiritual understanding and Christianlike compassion.

Some folks around Fern Creek are making use of their deep-seated yearning for fellowship by the young folks of Beulah Saturday night was quite a success. Many cakes and some strawberries were brought and sold. There was $70 or $75 cleared.

Dr. H. Cornell Goerner, head of the Missions Department of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, will leave Sunday, for a two and half month tour through the mission stations in South America.

In the textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, we read (p. 276): "When the divine precepts are understood, they unfold the foundation of fellowship, in which one mind is not at war with another, but all have the same God, the intelligent source, in accordance with the Scriptural command: 'Let this Mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus.'"

The Mind that was in Christ Jesus is the source of consolation and of all intelligence. Envy, jealousy, resentment, fear, have no place in this Mind; therefore, the foundation of thought cannot be manifested by the man of God's creating. Instead, man, as the expression of God, is lovely and lovable, good and gracious, joyful and free, with no taint of worldliness. He can neither sin nor sorrow, kill nor be killed, for he is the pure spiritual reflection of infinite Love, Life, and Truth. He reflects the justice, honor, intelligence, and strength of Mind, God.

Christ Jesus said with conviction and proof (John 10:30): "I and my Father are one." He understood this great spiritual truth, thus establishing his relationship with God, his real Father-Mother, he would demonstrate the brotherhood of man. Misunderstandings cannot arise in the Mind of Christ, nor can they arise in us when we know divine truth to be the only Mind.

The causes of war are thus seen to lie in the false beliefs and cruel fears of mortal mind. We must remove the cause to erase the effect. God, good, must be acknowledged and demonstrated as the one and only cause. To recognize man's purity as God's reflection elevates both motive and purpose. Thus we shall establish fellowship on a spiritual and hence an enduring basis.

We shall love our neighbor as ourselves when we perceive that our neighbor in his true selfhood, like ourselves, expresses God, divine Principle, Love, for man is God's image. Do we foster in ourselves the qualities we consider worthy, valuable, and enduring, and do we appreciate these qualities in others? Open appreciation of the good characteristics and abilities of others is proof that in some degree these same principles obtain in us.

Love for God and man, the fruit of spiritual understanding, must permeate our endeavors to develop true brotherhood; the universal fellowship which Jesus illustrated. St. Paul said (I Corinthians 13:1): "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid; and other gospel can no man preach than that which we have received." Universal fellowship must be built on this foundation. Then it will be enduring, founded upon the rock of Truth. — The Christian Science Monitor.

ABRAHAM believed God and it was counted unto him for righteousness (Genesis 15:6). By taking God at His Word, by believing Him, he got just what he wanted. He became a righteous man in God's sight. Abraham believed that God would keep the covenant which He had made with him when He made him great; and in that shall all families of the earth be blessed (Genesis 12:3). Abraham believed God when He said, "Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou standest, and southward, and eastward, and westward: for all the land which thou seeest to thee will I give it, and to thy seed for ever" (Genesis 12:7). Believing God, Abraham looked forward with the eye of faith to the fulfillment of God's promise in the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Men today have righteousness imputed to them in the same way that Abraham did—by believing that God will keep his promise to them in the sight of God. For

God tells us that "all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags" (Isaiah 64:6). "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). "There is none righteous, no one" (Romans 3:10).

Exactly what is it that I must believe in order to be righteous? This is the Gospel; this is the world to save sinners, that apart from Him I cannot please God or know forgiveness of sin and "by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified" (Galatians 2:16). Realizing then that I am a sinner, I must trust Him for salvation upon the mercy of God, believing that the blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son, cleanses from all sin (1 John 1:7).

This is the Gospel; this is the good news that I, a poor sinner lost and undone, without hope and having no means in myself of becoming acceptable unto God, find redemption from sin in trusting the perfect Son of God as my Saviour, realizing that not upon my merits but upon His sacrifice for me on Calvary depends my salvation, knowing that the who know no sin was made sin for us that we might become the righteousness of God in Him (II Corinthians 5:21).

This is the Gospel; this is the world to save sinners, that apart from Him I cannot please God or know forgiveness of sin and "by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified" (Galatians 2:16). Realizing then that I am a sinner, I must trust Him for salvation upon the mercy of God, believing that the blood of Jesus Christ, God's Son, cleanses from all sin (1 John 1:7).

This is the Gospel; this is the good news that I, a poor sinner lost and undone, without hope and having no means in myself of becoming acceptable unto God, find redemption from sin in trusting the perfect Son of God as my Saviour, realizing that not upon my merits but upon His sacrifice for me on Calvary depends my salvation, knowing that the who know no sin was made sin for us that we might become the righteousness of God in Him (II Corinthians 5:21).

Men today have righteousness imputed to them in the same way that Abraham did—by believing that God will keep his promise to them in the sight of God. For

God tells us that "all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags" (Isaiah 64:6). "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God" (Romans 3:23). "There is none righteous, no one" (Romans 3:10).

Exactly what is it that I must believe in order to be righteous? This is the Gospel; this is the world to save sinners, that apart from Him I cannot please God or know forgiveness of sin and "by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified" (Galatians 2:16). Attention!
Jeffersontown Sewer Users

It has come to the attention of the Jeffersontown Water & Sewerage Commission that quite a large number of property owners are using the sewer system without permission, without paying a tapping fee, and without paying a monthly rental charge. THIS IS A DIRECT VIOLATION OF THE LAW.
In some instances we know that the system is being used innocently by some property owners who have bought homes which had been connected to the sewer lines by the builders, without permission, and which were later sold to the present owners. These present owners and builders are jointly liable.
This notice is to give all violators an opportunity to correct this situation. You should contact Mr. Joseph A. Jones, Superintendent of the Jeffersontown Water & Sewerage Commission by calling Jeffersontown 5431, who will handle your case. After June 1, 1948 appropriate action will be taken as each violation warrants.

ganized baseball. Nearly all the population turns out when the Fairgrounds (City League) teams play on the home grounds. Mr. Sensing is telling you about Fulton's school system in his own words:

"Our greatest single problem at the present time is the deplorable condition of our schools. The only reason they are open now—and their only hope of re-opening this fall lies in the willingness of our teachers to sacrifice themselves for our youth. There just isn't enough tax money to run our schools properly."

"Under the urging of local citizens representative in the legislature introduced and had passed in both houses a measure to make the city of Fulton a separate district for purposes of taxation—in order that we might raise our own taxes to support our schools. It was merely another case of wanting to shift for ourselves. Unfortunately for us, the bill was vetoed by the governor."

The revolt against the old "status quo" is growing. The people of Fulton are not asking for a "plan" on the part of others to help them with their problems—they are determined to strike out on their own."

The city is proud of the fact that it is the smallest one in our state.

Fulton county claims the largest Fulton Bureau organization in the state.

Tractor Operation Source of Fuel Loss

Kentucky farmers are wasting annually about a half million dollars in tractor fuel, according to a recent study which states that the average tractor may waste up to 150 gallons of fuel each year. Much of this loss may be avoided, says E. F. Daniel, field agent in farm management at the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky. He recommends: (1) keeping the tractor in good mechanical condition, (2) doing two jobs at once, (3) repairing leaks in tanks and hose, (4) not filling the fuel tank entirely full, and (5) not overloading the tractor. Because farm production costs are becoming more important to the welfare of the state, New York has named a woman as deputy commissioner of its commerce department. In California, 40 women have been appointed to public posts in the past three years.

College Advocates Written Farm Lease

Although oral farm leases still are common, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, says written leases provide a basis for better farming and greater satisfaction for both landlord and tenant. Leases for more than a year cannot be enforced unless they are written. Some of the more important matters that should be covered in a lease are: Amount and method of payment of rental. Time covered by the lease, with provision for renewal if both parties are satisfied. Description of property. Provision for upkeep and repair of farm buildings and equipment and upkeep or improvement of the soil. Crops to be grown and methods of farming to be followed. Compensation to landlord for undue damage to property. Compensation to tenant for the unexhausted value of improvements made at the tenant's expense and with the landlord's consent, if there is such exhaustion of value remaining when the tenant moves from the farm.

Hugo U. S. Fire Toll

Direct losses by fire in 1947 totaled an unprecedented 700 million dollars, or 23 per cent higher than the 1946 toll of 561 million dollars. The 1947 fire loss, if apportioned equally among America's 80 million jobholders, would cost each wage earner $1.66. In 1946, the average fire protection costs about $3.89 per capita, according to the President's conference on fire prevention. This public protection against fire would cost each family of four a total of $15.76. Adding $11.00 to $14.76 costs $26.76, the average family's share in the direct cost of fire and the protection made necessary by the fire. This only covers the direct costs of destructive fire. The indirect costs, which include losses of business, medical expenses and other factors, which can only be estimated, are two to three times the direct property loss.

New Uses for Corn

Future industrial uses of corn and its by-products are almost limitless. The use of stalks and leaves as ensilage, packing materials, paper and paper board, and the use of cobs as a source of fuel which is used for various synthetic and as a selective solvent in petroleum refining are but a few. Another use is for burning materials, for sweeping compounds and for light weight ceramics. The analogy of starch now being in the same relative raw material position as petroleum was 20 years ago gives to corn a bright and rosy future.

Women Secure Increasing Number of Public Offices

A woman's place—among others—in a state government, according to a recent survey of at least 30 states. Citing a study now being made by Women's National Institute, the civil service assembly reports that in the majority of states women are being appointed in increasing numbers to public jobs, especially in social welfare, health, education and labor. California, Connecticut, Illinois, Oregon, New Jersey and New York are among states greatly increasing the number of women in public office during the past few years. These states also have passed laws recently protecting feminine interests generally.

Current trend in such legislation is toward laws which safeguard women's interests by insuring an equal pay for equal work, regardless of sex, by opening jury duty to women and by granting community property rights to married couples. One state now maintains counseling service for help women seek and run their own businesses, while another meets with women's representatives to discuss legislation of special interest to women.

In New York, women now are employed in every department of the state. New York has named a woman as deputy commissioner of its commerce department. In California, 40 women have been appointed to public posts in the past three years.

Corn Credited With Saving Colonists From Starvation

The advance of American civilization has been closely paralleled by the increasing importance of Indian maize or as it now is called—corn. When the early settlements in Virginia were in dire straits of starving, it was the foresight of Captain John Smith, who had decreed that every colonist plant corn, that saved the day. Thus from its very inception, America has been permeated with and obligated to corn, which has played a major, if little realized, role in its history.

Many branches of science have been responsible for development of the corn industry. For example, the agronomists, the chemists, the engineers. But the greatest credit as well as many others have pointed their talents to raise the original, humble Indian maize to the prominent role it now plays in world economy.

The value of the corn harvest annually exceeds that of any other agricultural crop. As a matter of fact, in 1946 the value of the total corn crop was greater than the combined total of all the coal mined and all of the oil produced in this country.

Valuable Oil From Weeds

Possibility of making a valuable oil from the seed of pennycress, a European weed common in the western and western states, has been suggested by the department of agriculture. This weed, called fan weed, french weed, ditch mustard, treacle wormseed and bastard cress is similar in general appearance and potencies to rapeseed and mustard oils. Its seeds yield about a third of their weight in oil; the residual oil-free meal has a protein content higher than that of undecorticated cottonseed meal obtained by mechanical expression which contains about 28 per cent protein. The potential value of pennycress oil naturally lies in its close resemblance to oils of rape and mustard, which are valued ingredients of certain lubricants and are employed in machinery operating under heavy loads at high temperatures such as marine and diesel engines. Both rape and mustard oils are used in some food products, and it is probable that, with proper refinement, pennycress oil is edible.

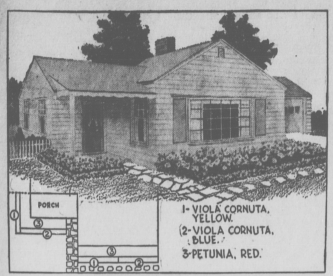

Huge U. S. Fire Toll

Direct losses by fire in 1947 totaled an unprecedented 700 million dollars, or 23 per cent higher than the 1946 toll of 561 million dollars. The 1947 fire loss, if apportioned equally among America's 80 million jobholders, would cost each wage earner $1.66. In 1946, the average fire protection costs about $3.89 per capita, according to the President's conference on fire prevention. This public protection against fire would cost each family of four a total of $15.76. Adding $11.00 to $14.76 costs $26.76, the average family's share in the direct cost of fire and the protection made necessary by the fire. This only covers the direct costs of destructive fire. The indirect costs, which include losses of business, medical expenses and other factors, which can only be estimated, are two to three times the direct property loss.

The analogy of starch now being in the same relative raw material position as petroleum was 20 years ago gives to corn a bright and rosy future.

A picture window is almost standard equipment for the modern small home. The name is based upon the assumption that the window looks out upon a landscape view. Many such windows are seen obdurate by shrubs, grown too tall for the low house they are intended to decorate. Others are heavily curtained, thus the only view is one of a bare front lawn, and street.

But the picture window in the illustration achieves its purpose, thanks to the attractive flower bed planted in front of it. On the low, one-story house which now dominates new building, flowers in the front yard provide an attractive frame and decoration for the usually severe design.

Violas are one of the pansy, but have a longer flowering season, especially in the north. They are excellent for planting in front of a house which faces north. The color scheme, and flower variety suggested in the sketch, can be varied.

A modern effect in decoration is obtained when flowers are planted in masses of a single color, rather than in mixture, or in patterns. A ribbon planting of a dwarf flower of contrasting color, is often grown around the edge of the bed.

Low growing annuals which are suited for use in front yard flower beds and borders include:

- 1-VIOLA CORNUTA, BLUE.
- 2-VIOLA CORNUTA, BLUE.
- 3-PETUNIA, RED.

Red and pink-pompon aster, begonia, carnation, pansy, candytuft, celosia, clarkia, pink, nasturtium, petunia, phlox, portulaca, salvia, veronica, yellow and equi setina, impatiens.

Yellow and orange-Clendiana, dwarf calliopsis, orange cosmos, dianthus, marigold, nasturtium, portulaca, santalvia, cupid and lilliput zinnias.

Recreation To Sponsor
Freedom Train Trips

The Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board will sponsor, through local community recreation committees, the transporting of interested Jefferson County residents to the much heralded Freedom Train. The train is scheduled to make its stopover in Louisville in July. It carries historical documents of the American heritage, has a special detachment of Marines and is visiting the larger cities of the entire country.

The purpose of the Freedom Train is to furnish an opportunity to Americans to see the historic documents. For the first time, those who cannot go to Washington or a large university will be able to see the papers of which they have read in school. Among the interesting documents transported here will be a letter by Christopher Columbus on the discovery of America, Paul Revere's commission as official messenger, Washington's own copy of the Constitution, and the original manuscript of the "Star Spangled Banner." The Freedom Train will carry General Eisenhower's personal flag, Commodore Perry's flag, and the flag which was raised on Iwo Jima. There are also unusual documents on board. Deborah Cannon, a woman serving in the Revolutionary War, claimed a pension for her services. Benjamin Franklin wrote one of the most famous epistles in American history for himself. FERN CREEK HOME

ECONOMICS STYLE SHOW

By Wanda Roman

On May 20, the Fern Creek Home Economics Classes had their annual style show. Fifty-five students from the Freshman and Sophomore Home Economics Classes modeled their spring dresses. There were many beautiful dresses of all sizes, styles, colors, and materials, which were described by poetry. We invited as our guests our mothers, friends and the faculty. After the style show we served punch and cookies to our guests in the Home Economics Department. The style show was a great success and was enjoyed by everyone.

THE ANNUAL PICNIC OF St. Bartholomew Church, Bardonia, will be held this year on July 1. It has been announced by Martin J. Bleemel, general picnic chairman. Mr. Bleemel said that the usual chicken dinner and amusements would highlight the festival.

REPEAL
Mrs. Daisy Foreman
Your Creamery
YOU STAND TO LOSE YOUR REGULAR CASH INCOME FROM BUTTER

Repeal of the oleo tax laws would be felt first by the farmer who milks from 3 to 6 cows since most of this milk goes directly into butter. Butter is the product you rely on to meet every day expenses and taxes. In addition, butter provides a market for all surplus milk. Butter thus directly affects the well-being of all dairy farmers. The federal tax restrictions on colored pleo protect the fine pure product of more than a million and a half dairy farmers. The 26 big oleomargarine manufacturers want those taxes repealed. You stand to lose cash income.

Mrs. Spangler brings splendid gospel messages to this congregation, but this proved to be one of the best. Seventy-one persons in Sunday School, fifty-nine last year at this time.

Children's Day will be observed in June and Mrs. Robert J. Cook was appointed as chairman of the program, by Mr. O. L. Shobe, superintendent of Sunday School.

Also plans for a Home Department are on the way. An invitation was extended to the young people from the age of 13 or over to attend camp in Indiana, where Mrs. Spangler will teach New Testament History during June.

William H. Frederick, Jr., aged 65 years, died at his home in Punta Gorda, Florida, Monday, May 17, and was interred Friday, May 21, in Cave Hill Cemetery, Louisville, on the family burying lot, beside the remains of his father, W. H. Frederick, Sr., and those of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Frederick, who were all well known in this community.

The funeral was conducted in Punta Gorda, by the minister of the Presbyterian Church where he and his family were members, and Friday at Mass Funeral Home, with minister of the town of Punta Gorda, in charge. The Parkland Lodge of Masons had services at the grave. His wife, Mrs. Anna Burwick

Frederick, and son, Clarence Lee Frederick, accompanied his body here.

Besides his wife and son, he is survived by a grandchild and his mother, Mrs. Emma W. Frederick, who made her home in the last two years with him. The pallbearers were his three cousins, Messrs. Fielden, Warren and Alfred Frederick, two nephews, Messrs. Wm. and Clarence Burwick and Mr. Fairfax, a close friend. Mrs. Frederick was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lee Frederick and daughter, returned Saturday to their home in Florida. His mother, on account of her advanced age, was not able to make the trip here.

A meeting was held at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon, with Rev. E. T. Smith, State Director of Evangelism, in charge. Forty-five were present and plans were made to present the church with regular services each Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. A revival was also discussed for the month of July.

My sympathy is extended to Mr. Wm. Ireland and family in the loss of Mrs. Ireland, who passed away last week at her home in Oklahoma. She was a lovely person and will be missed not only by her family but her friends and neighbors as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thomas spent the week and near Bloomfield, Ky., visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William Norris and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Frederick of Louisville, were guests on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Fielden Frederick.

Mrs. Julius Hart and Mrs. Wilfred Kaler were dinner guests one day last week of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mueller, in Louisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Blachoff entertained with a family reunion on Sunday at their home in southern Indiana where they recently purchased a farm.

Mrs. Clarence Lewis, who underwent an operation at St. Anthony's Infirmary two weeks ago, was brought home on Sunday and is getting along fine as we are happy to report.

Mrs. Thomas Yarn entertained her sewing club at her home on Wednesday. An enjoyable day as usual, was spent in this lovely home by all the ladies.
